2022 Professional Legal Education Conference

Emergent technologies such as artificial intelligence, machine learning and digital robotics, new business models, and the impacts of climate change will transform the legal profession, transform its community interactions, and change the way we practise and teach law. They are and will transform the responsibilities of directors and trustees.

How do legal professionals, legal educators, directors and trustees prepare for this uncertain future and provide their stakeholders with the tools to navigate change? How does anyone involved in the law, regulation and compliance meet their responsibilities in a rapidly changing legal environment? Soon to be exacerbated by compulsory ESG compliances and the extension of the UN Global Fiduciary Standard to Australia?

What new models for the delivery of legal services and education will best help us, our students and our communities navigate change? What can the legal profession do differently in response to a vastly different and rapidly changing world? How does the profession assist directors and trustees?

Bond University Law Faculty and ActiumAI Pty Ltd are jointly hosting this conference to provide the answers to these and other questions. We invite you to join us as we explore our place in an unknowable future. Hear from thought leaders on:

- New legal technologies, including AI, Machine Learning and Robotic Process Automation
- Legal technology and compliance obligations
- Evolving Directors and Trustee Duties
- Practical legal skills training
- Legal technology and ethics
